PROFILE

I am a fresh graduate with a bachelor degree in Computer Science, seeking a full-time position in the field of IT, where I can apply my knowledge and skills for continuous improvement. My interests and experiences range from programming in Java, Python, and Web Development, to big data and data mining.

I have had various opportunities showcasing my skills both in programming and team-working through my internship and competition experiences. I am driven by passion and curiosity, and enjoy learning and solving new challenges. I also consider myself a good communicator of English, both written and spoken.
